PROFILE

I am a Mathematics graduate from Patliputra University (Patna) and have completed an M.Sc in Computer Science at the University of Mumbai in 2024. My passion for technology drives me to explore and innovate in Front-end Web Development and Data Science. With strong skills in React.js and Python, I am adept at building responsive and dynamic web applications and analyzing and interpreting complex data sets. I am always eager to learn new technologies and methodologies to enhance my skill set and stay at the forefront of the rapidly evolving tech landscape. My goal is to leverage my technical expertise and enthusiasm for technology to contribute to impactful projects and drive meaningful change in the field.
